Powering Strong Communities

Public power executives view companies that belong to APPA as thought leaders and supporters of their industry.

The American Public Power Association (APPA) is the voice of not-for-profit, community-owned utilities that power 2,000 towns and cities nationwide. We represent public power before the federal government to protect the interests of the more than 49 million customers that public power utilities serve and the 93,000 people they employ. Our association advocates and advises on electricity policy, technology, trends, training, and operations. Our members strengthen their communities by providing superior service, engaging citizens, and instilling pride in community-owned power.

Connect with leaders who make critical purchasing decisions for their utilities

Report already having an AMI system in place or have plans to invest in AMI or OMS solutions in the next one to three years.

- Are much more likely to have plans to invest in customer information systems (including interactive outage notifications), utility-scale renewable generation, and behind the meter storage – and for higher amounts.
- Report being more likely to go after federal funding opportunities under the Infrastructure Investment and Jobs Act.

- Report an increased demand for distribution transformers.
- Report being more aware of potential impacts of distributed energy resources within their service territory.
- Are more likely to have a defined cybersecurity strategy and to be seeking cybersecurity solutions.
- Are more likely to engage a variety of business consultants.

Enjoy exclusive benefits

You can choose from two levels of membership — Elite Corporate Associate and Corporate Associate — designed to fit your budget and needs. Membership extends to all your employees, so everyone can access APPA benefits and services.
